

The Story of Lulu

The Brunswick County animal shelter called a local rescue group to ask for help. There was a small brown Chihuahua named Lulu that had been brought in. She was so traumatized from being alone that she had decided she did not want to live. She lay in a ball in the corner, not willing to eat or drink for days.

The staff knew Lulu's only hope was to get out of the shelter if she was to have a chance to live. A rescue volunteer took Lulu home. As they drove home, Lulu looked up. Her little tail began to wag. Lulu had decided she would give life another chance!

The next day, Lulu took a walk around the block. She greeted a nice woman who said, "that is just the kind of dog we have been looking for." Lulu went home with the woman to see how they liked each other. Lulu spent the night and thus begins the story of Lulu and her new "forever" family! You will see Lulu walking with her dad to get the paper each day and checking out the beach to look for shells with her mom. Lulu is one of the lucky ones. She hopes you smile when you read her story.
