

Tale of Harry

Harry was tossed from a moving car by a cruel, uncaring human. He was lucky when a kind human stopped to pick up his broken body. He would end up in rescue with RACE. His early life was not one that fairytales are made of. He was a puppy mill survivor and a very fragile dog. In his early life, his back leg was badly broken and left untreated, healing into a painful mess. The leg was further damaged when he was thrown from a moving car. Due to the leg injuries, it was decided that the best thing for Harry was to have his leg removed. Since Harry's surgery, life has changed drastically. Despite his "imperfections", he found just the right family to love him. Harry can run and play without any pain and now he has a forever family who really see his inner beauty and love him.

Harry has become a certified therapy dog and now works to bring comfort to those who are also considered "Imperfect"! Harry was one of the lucky ones!
